FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 15
STATE OF WISCONSIN.
BY THE GOVERNOR.

Since the early days of the Republic it has been the grateful pleasure and custom of the people to assemble once a year, and by the giving, raising and fostering, tender unto the Governor of All Good a sincere expression of gratitude for his faithful care and goodness.

Now, therefore, I, William D. Hoard, Governor of the State of Wisconsin, in conformity with this most fitting custom, by appropriate exercises in their places of worship and their homes, for the abundant mercies which we have received at His hands in the past year.

In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of Wisconsin to be affixed. Done at the Capitol, in Madison, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and eighty-nine.

WILLIAM D. HOARD.
By the Governor:
ERNEST G. TIMME, Secretary of State.

THE POLITICAL W. U. T. U.

There are a good many sincere friends of temperance who will deeply regret that the woman's christian temperance union has decided to become a political organization. It has been leading toward the third party prohibitionists for some time, but its action at the national convention in Chicago, places it altogether on the side of that political party.

When the question came up as to whether the woman's christian temperance union should be non-partisan, it was discussed with a good deal of animation. Miss Willard, and a majority of the convention which followed in all things whether right or wrong, holding that the union was non-partisan, and Mrs. Foster, of Iowa, and the Iowa delegation, dissenting. Mrs. Foster's plan is to throw christianity in the work of temperance, to plant the gospel solidly in every field occupied by the woman's christian temperance union. Miss Willard's plan seems to be to throw politics in the work of temperance, to plant the union around the ambition of the class-seeking and self-aggrandizing men like John F. St. John, and the women who want to abandon the home for politics.

There are thousands of women who joined the woman's christian temperance union for high moral and christian reasons. They were in earnest in the great work, and they have accomplished much good. But under the influence of false ambition and guided by a reckless judgment, many of the christian women have aided the successful effort to turn the union into a political machine, and have been taught to hiss the names of honorable public men, and to cheer the tongue of slander.

There was a time when the woman's christian temperance union had for its watchwords, "charity, reform, christianity, and temperance," but these endearing words do not seem to echo any more in the great convention halls of the union. Now the battle cry plainly appears to be, "politics; anything to beat the republican party; free whisky, or none at all."

But it must be said that there are many local unions that do not partake of the spirit nor enter into sympathy with the national convention of the woman's christian temperance union on political questions. The spirit, "the gospel in temperance" still abides with them. It is a great pity that this spirit has forsaken the convention over which Miss Willard presides.

BUILD THE SHIPS.

One of the steel companies of this city has received a large order for steel from the Peruvian government. In some countries of South America our advantages for trade are already appreciated. A queer thing about this order is that it has to be shipped to its destination by way of Liverpool, England, or in other words, almost directly across the Atlantic Ocean, and then diagonally back over it. The complex course is a good illustration of our need of South American steamship lines of our own. If we had a line from New Orleans, say, the distance would be lessened two-thirds, while the freightage profits would stay with us instead of going into foreign pockets.—Pittsburg Commercial.

The meaning of this is that the United States must have ships if it wants foreign trade. It does not answer any good purpose to say that a tariff has something to do with the decline of our merchant marine, for the facts are, the protective policy of the government does not enter into the question at all.

The foreign trade of Peru in twenty years has aggregated in imports 114 million dollars from France, 149 millions from Great Britain, and only $1 million from the United States. Just as in the case of the steel contract mentioned by the Pittsburg Commercial, "the American goods sent to Peru now go by English and German steamships via Liverpool and Cape Horn. The Royal Mail steamship company and a French line monopolize the entire trade of Peru under heavy subsidies from the French and English governments."

A BANDIT'S CONFESSION.

"BLACK BART" HAS ACKNOWLEDGED HIS CRIMES.

He Claims He Was Temporarily Insane When They Were Committed—The Criminal Record.

BESSEMER, Mich., Nov. 15.—Bandit Holzhay took the stand and made a confession. He told the story of his life from his birth in the hour of his arrest. He admitted that he had robbed the Milwaukee & Northern train at Abrams six months ago. Then he went through the Wisconsin Central train at Cadet a month later, and after that he waylaid the Gogebic stage and shot Hank or Fleschman, for whose murder he is on trial. But he claimed that each act of lawlessness was committed while he was in a "spell," an insane period which he claimed to experience at various times. The result of a fall some years ago, the line of defense was so novel that the spectators who filled the court room were forced to smile, but the story and the facts brought out by the cross-examination were listened to with the closest attention. Holzhay has played his trump card in admitting his guilt, but has lost the game. The story is too thin for the jury, and he will be convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment.

If the United States wants its share of the South American trade, it must do what England is doing—build its own ships and grant them such governmental aid as shall enable them to carry freights just as cheaply as the subsidized steamers of other countries. If it will not do this, it will go without that trade, protection or no protection.

It would seem as if republicans this year made a mistake all along the line on candidates for governor. In Iowa, while republicans have a majority upon other leading candidates, the governor is defeated 5,000. In Ohio the same condition exists, and the governor is defeated by 12,000. In Massachusetts the state officers receive a plurality of 17,000, while the republican governor has but 5,000.

All this comes in the name of a warning voice. A man who attempts to push himself forward against public sentiment, will usually get downed. And again, it very often happens that a defeat of a party has the moral effect that a thrashing has on a bad boy—it puts him on his feet.

Ex-Speaker Carlisle thinks that "Mr. Cleveland's star is brighter now than it ever was, and he is almost sure to lead the democratic party in the campaign of 1892. The country demands Cleveland, and what the people say is the governing principle of democracy." But the people said last year that they did not want Cleveland, and they said it in a pretty loud voice.

Mr. Russell Harrison has been cut in Montana, has returned, and has been interviewed. It would be a kindness to the republican party, and a good thing for the father, if Mr. Russell Harrison would keep out of Montana, not interfere with federal appointments, but attend to his knitting on the Frank Leslie.

Those who want to know how funny it is for a newspaper to change from a free trade advocate to a defender of protection, and all the while keep its face to the front, should read the editorials in the Chicago Tribune.

The state has done its work in the Cronin case. It is a pity the gallows is not through with its work.

RELIGIOUS INTELLIGENCE.

Arthur Cleveland Coxe, Episcopal Bishop of western New York, will have been in the episcopate twenty-five years Jan. 4, 1890.

The bishop of Worcester lately attempted to prevent a clergyman of his parish from speaking at a Baptist chapel, but the clergyman spoke for all that, and the situation excited considerable interest.

The Christian Advocate (Methodist) says: "John W. Chadwick, the cultivated poet-preacher of Brooklyn, has issued a volume of sixteen sermons. In one of these he says: 'It is Jesus himself who is the unfinishing enunciator of the doctrine of an eternal and fiery hell.'"

It is not generally known that there is a gradual increase in the number of motherhoods among the reformed bodies of Europe. Statistics published in Germany show that there are fifty-seven religious houses not owing the Roman obedience, and 7,190 sisters, of whom 2,908 are serving their novitiate.

Miss Mary S. Cutler of the New York State library has made an inquiry into the practice of libraries having 10,000 volumes upwards as Sunday opening. Out of fifty-nine college libraries heard from as many as twelve are open Sundays; only three out of eleven are theological seminaries libraries.

Alarmed at the spread of spiritualism, the authorities at Jicin, in Bohemia, have just issued notices that henceforth all spiritualistic gatherings are prohibited. The notice says that not only are the mediums to be expelled, but that any person who gives rise to ill-feeling and quarrelling among the inhabitants.

The work of the revision of the Bible in Berlin has now proceeded so far that a conference of revision is to take place during the present month. Not only has the Old Testament been revised, but the revised version of the New Testament has been again corrected, this having proved necessary to secure exact conformity.

Though Brooklyn has long been known as the "City of Churches," it appears that now there are four other cities which in respect to the proportion of churches to population surpass it, and what will doubtless be surprising to most persons, it is Cincinnati, where, perhaps, Sunday is less observed than anywhere else in the country, that heads the list.

The Catholic Union says: The saloon at night is a pandemonium, ninety-nine hundredths of the crime of a large city, close the saloon at night. Let the City of Mexico plan to follow in our large cities—6 a. m. to 6 p. m.—and give the father and husband an opportunity to make the acquaintance of his family. The saloonist ought himself to work for that opportunity and make his calling more respectable and less odious.

George Muller, who is traveling and preaching among the Himalayas, has written the fiftieth annual report of his famous orphanage at Bristol, England. Since the institution was founded it has received and spent more than $5,000,000; more than 100,000 persons have been entirely supported and educated in it, and tens of thousands materially assisted; five large houses, capable of affording homes for 2,050 orphans have been built at a cost of $775,000, and sixty-six schools are now maintained. Yet the institution has never been in debt and has never directly or indirectly asked for human aid.

THE COURT TOOK TO FLIGHT.

Moody Fight Between the French and French Parties—The Men Killed.

HAZARD, Ky., Nov. 15.—The Circuit court convened last Monday, the 4th inst. Judge Lilly, the regular judge not being present, the bar elected Capt. W. L. Hursel, of Wolfe county, to preside.

The Eversole party kept increasing in numbers until it reached thirty well-armed men. There were only a few of the French who took town. It soon became apparent that there would be trouble. The Eversole party kept increasing in numbers until it reached thirty well-armed men. There were only a few of the French who took town. It soon became apparent that there would be trouble.

Thursday evening Wesley Whitaker, of the Eversole faction fired upon Henry Davidson, of the French party, who was standing in the door of the jailer's residence, a few yards from the court house. Whitaker had barricaded himself in a small log house on the opposite side of the street. Davidson was soon joined by Tom and Ed Smith and others. Whitaker, in the meantime, had also been joined by several of his friends and a lively fight took place between the four men of the French party and the Eversoles. The court, which was in session, stampeded. The fight lasted about fifteen minutes. When the smoke cleared away it was found that Ed Campbell of the Eversole party had been killed.

This fight took place about 4 o'clock in the evening. The parties rested on their arms till dark, when the fight was renewed with increased fierceness. The French party had been reinforced by a Davidson boys, Jesse Morgan, brother of E. C. Morgan, who was killed by the Eversoles, and others. B. F. French came into town about 12 o'clock with reinforcements. The French party occupied what positions they could find. But the main fight took place between Jesse Fields and Tom Smith, who occupied a strongly fortified position commanding the enemy's position, and they kept up a steady fire on the Eversoles. The battle lasted about an hour, when the Eversole party beat a hasty retreat, forcing the river, and disappearing in the mountains on the other side, leaving their dead.

Ed Campbell and John McKnight were killed. Several were wounded. One Eversole, Judge James C. Eversole's son, received a flesh wound in the arm. Court broke up without ceremony, the judge leaving for home as quickly as possible.

NEW ENGLAND MAGAZINE.

AN INTERESTING NUMBER FOR NOVEMBER.

The New England Magazine for November is emphatically a New England number. Its frontispiece is a beautiful picture of the old Wayside Inn at Sudbury, which Longfellow's verse has made so famous; and among the beautiful pictures which so generously fill the pages we are almost from first to last in the New England atmosphere. "An Old Connecticut Town" is a charming article on Milford, Conn., which has just celebrated its two hundred and fiftieth birthday. A similar memorial article is devoted to the old Cape Cod towns of Sandwich and Yarmouth. Mr. Mead furnishes the article on the Wayside Inn, paying tribute to it as the new history of Sudbury, by the publication of which that historical town has just celebrated its anniversary. The recent celebration of the old church at Quincy is remembered in the publication of the address by Charles Francis Adams, and Mr. Cranish's fine poem. There is much about Clark University, including a bright notice in Mr. Hale's "Tarry at Home Travels." A strong and sensible article by Rev. John H. Ward, on "The Revival of our Country Towns," is very appropriate in this number of the magazine, devoted so largely to old New England towns. An article by Edwin A. Start, on "The Country Newspaper," has special value in the same connection. Washington's visit to New England, in October, 1789, is noticed by the republication of a curious account of it at the time, in the old Massachusetts Magazine, which was founded by Isaiah Thomas, in that year. Professor Hosmer's "Haunted Bell" is continued, and there are other stories and essays, and a short poem by H. Bernard Carpenter. The three articles, however, which will chiefly interest a great body of readers are those on Francis Parkman, by Geo. Willis Cooke, beautifully illustrated; on "Edwin Arnold at Harvard," with a striking portrait, the first we remember to have seen, of the author of The Light of Asia, who is as popular, and seems to feel himself almost as much at home in America as in England; and on "The Boston Symphony Orchestra," by Louis C. Elson, with portraits of the new conductor, Mr. Nikisch, of Genesee, and others. This is an article of exceptional interest to the musical world.

BLOWING THE WHISTLE.

THE MUSIC ON NORTH MAIN STREET LAST EVENING.

A gag of hoodlums got in their work last evening at the Thoroughgood & Co. factory, on North Main street, by blowing the steam whistle. During the repairing of the water power and low water, the Thoroughgood Co. found it necessary, in order to keep their factory in operation, to procure power from other sources, and therefore secured two threshing machine engines. These engines were placed on a vacant lot near their factory building. Last evening after the factory had been shut down for the night considerable steam was left in the boilers. This was noticed by some mischievous boys. They secured a small rope and tied one end of it to the valves operating the whistles. Then leading off to an out-of-the-way place, they pulled the rope tight and tied it fast. The whistles set up an unearthly noise, and for several minutes, and in fact until the steam was exhausted, there was considerable excitement in the vicinity, and on the business streets. Several members of the fire department hurried to their respective stations expecting to hear an alarm of fire. Ald. Thoroughgood, who lives near by the factory hurried to the scene. The whistles were blowing at full head, but could see no one around. It being quite dark he concluded that the engineer must be around, so he called out inquiring what was the matter? No answer came. A crowd gathered and finally, after lanterns had been procured and the steam all exhausted, the cause of all the racket was discovered.

IN CIRCUIT COURT.

The arguments in the action of Ames Hutchinson against O. P. Smith were made this morning, and the jury found a verdict in favor of the defendant.

The action of Charles Dutton vs. Loretta M. Kelly was continued for the term by consent.

The action of William Wadley and James M. Clark, against Thomas Madden is now on trial. This action is for the recovering of the amount of an accepted draft. The defendant Madden denies that the signature to the accepted draft is his, and refuses payment.

THE HAND EMBROIDERER.

In another column will be found a cut of the Hand Embroiderer that the Gazette offers as a premium. The little invention is very simple and works to perfection. Any lady can use it with a little practice, and the work produced is equal to the most careful hand work and ten times more rapid. Samples of the work may be seen either at the Gazette office or at the drug store of E. B. Heimstreet, directly opposite.

The Gazette wants a good lady canvasser in every town in the county. Liberal commission paid.

There is no more fruitful source of disease than vitiated blood. It involves every organ and function of the body, and is not immediately corrected by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, sooner or later leads to fatal results. Be warned in time.

WHAT NEXT?

THE TEACHING OF COOKING IN THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

Now that the county board of supervisors has adjourned, leaving our esteemed morning contemporary in the same dilemma it was in when the common council refused to adopt its suggestions in relation to a fire boat on Rock river, the attention of our esteemed friend is called to the recent innovation in the course of study in the public schools of Milwaukee. If the report of the late superintendent of our schools be correct, there are several rooms in the city school buildings which might be better utilized for a similar course of study here, and it would undoubtedly result in vastly greater benefits to mankind than the enforcement of a rule whereby scholars are compelled to read written evidence of parents or guardians explaining minute causes of tardiness and absenteeism. But to the point—the Milwaukee Sentinel, of this morning, is responsible for the following statement: "The indications are that the teaching of cooking in the public schools of the city will be made a permanent feature. At present only one teacher is employed and only one kitchen fitted up, but the work has proven so satisfactory that Supt. Anderson says if the lessons were discontinued they would be greatly missed. The kitchen is located in the Second District school building the same as last year, but the equipment is considerably better and now fully up to the requirements. It is possible that in another year the work will be extended so that there will be two or three instead of one, placed so as to accommodate the three sections of the city. The school has received an extra equipment as a donation so that another kitchen can be arranged at any time and on short notice.
